Agenda Topic 3

Expanded Institutional Participation

The sustainable development goals require the global collaboration of various International Organizations, governmental, non-governmental and private (associations), and participation (in unconditional public interest) of private business and non-governmental entities as individual entities and that of independent individuals of commitment and strengths. The WG's Charter, probably for this and other reasons, already envisages the importance of bringing in new collaborators.

Expanded Institutional Participation

The combined strength of the collaborators would enable aspirations to cause the evolving Internet to become more of an ecosystem for global progress in various spheres.

Expanded Institutional Participation

Such collaborations may be with organizations committed to finding solutions to global Internet concerns that the IGF shares, but not with any organization that may have pursuits narrower than acceptable.
